

Call for Papers
The Sixth China International Conference in Macroeconomics (CICM2024)
June 24 - 25, 2024
Hong Kong, China

The sixth China International Conference in Macroeconomics (CICM2024) will be held in person on June 24-25, 2024 in Hong Kong, China. The conference is jointly organised by the Department of Economics, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, and China Forum of Macroeconomic Research (CFMR).

The meeting is the sixth annual conference organised jointly by the China Forum of Macroeconomic Research and collaborating academic institutions in the Greater China area. The conference comprises regular parallel academic sessions in English and a policy session where policy experts from China and other regions discuss and present their views on current issues related to the local and global economy.

CO-ORGANIZERS

The Department of Economics, The Chinese University of Hong Kong (ECON)
China Forum of Macroeconomic Research (CFMR)

TOPICS

We welcome high-quality academic papers in all areas of macroeconomics as broadly defined, especially research on Chinese macroeconomy. The topics include, but not limited to, business cycles, economic growth and development, firm dynamics, income distribution and inequality, international trade and finance, labour market, macro-finance, monetary and fiscal policies, money and banking, networks, and structural changes. Only papers in English are accepted.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Yan Bai, University of Rochester
Ufuk Akcigit, University of Chicago

BEST PAPER AWARDS

The program committee plans to select two conference papers for the following awards.

- CICM Best Paper Award: US$2000
- CICM Best Junior Scholar Paper Award: US$2000

Papers on all topics will be considered for the awards, but we prioritise job market papers and China-related research.
